Firewood ALERT!

Emerald Ash Borers kill ash trees.
Don't bring firewood to a state campground.

Millions, perhaps billions of ash trees in Indiana and neighboring states are threatened by the Emerald Ash Borer (EAB). Since its discovery in southeast Michigan in 2002, this pest has moved into Indiana and Ohio with devastating results. EAB is a wood-boring beetle that kills ash trees.

Movement of infested firewood is the leading cause of EAB spreading from place to place. Please do not bring firewood of any kind from home to a campground. Do not take any firewood back home with you. Do not leave firewood for other campers. Burn it completely. Current EAB information is online at www.in.gov/dnr/entomolo/
